The Loberger family exploits the vine from generation to generation since the 17th century, successively grape salesmen, wine salesmen in bulk and then collecting owner. Since 1984, Jean-Jacques Loberger works the vine, vinifies and sells the totality of his production.

The Vineyard, eight hectares of vines located on the hillsides of the villages of Guebwiller and Bergholtz, profits from a perfect sunning by its South-eastern, Southern and Southwestern orientation.

The production, voluntarily limited, privileges the quality of our harvests. The personality and the great quality of our wines are the result of workmanlike methods of wine making and refinement.

We are proud to take part of the good reputation of the Alsatian vineyard abroad since we export more than 60 % of our vintages.

We would be pleased to receive you in our cellars, to make you taste and appreciate our wine range.
